Elisa Carbonell Martín
Chief Executive Officer

ICEX's raison d'être is to boost prosperity through internationalisation, promoting the overseas activity of our ecosystems and working to attract foreign investment. We provide services to minimise the barriers to internationalisation through quality information, important contacts and talent.

Three years ago the plan 'Spain, Audiovisual Hub of Europe' was approved in the audiovisual field, a pioneering initiative in which, for the first time, a policy to promote the audiovisual industry in Spain was based on a comprehensive view of the industry in all its forms (cinema, series, short films, advertising, video games and animation), as well as transcending the audiovisual industry to link up all the cultural industries, tourism and the country's image. The budget allocated to this Plan was of unprecedented ambition in the industry: more than 1.603 billion euros of public investment for the 2021-2025 period.

Spain has had unbeatable tools for the successful deployment of this Plan: a very competitive tax incentive scheme, the availability of creative personnel who have won the most important international awards in recent years, highly developed facilities and services, world-class transport infrastructure, a favourable climate and very diverse geographical locations. But, above all, a very efficient business and professional fabric with a great tradition and experience.

In order to highlight this group of companies and professionals and to continue promoting their development, ICEX Spain Trade and Investment, with the collaboration of the main associations in the industry and the different Film Commissions, is launching this third edition of the guide 'Who is Who. Shooting in Spain 2025-26', in which foreign investors will find over 100 contacts relating to production services companies, studios and film sets, consultancies and other companies offering services associated with production. It also includes information on the main associations, clusters, film commissions and film offices in Spain.

In this document, any interested investor will be able to find those responsible for the fact that the Spanish audiovisual industry has gone from aspiring to resemble that of other countries to becoming a global benchmark, an aspirational brand that is taken as an example of growth and adaptation to new trends in the industry.
